

INTERNATIONAL DIPLOMA IN DAIRY PRODUCTION ORGANIZED BY FEPALE – SECOND EDITION 2018

The Pan American Dairy Federation FEPALE organizes the second edition of the International Diploma in Dairy Production. The Diploma is provided by the Dairy Training Institute of FEPALE, INIA, INTA and FCA-UDE.

In the announcement FEPALE highlights that the growth in milk production and the demand of the domestic and international markets require more and more a professional specialization and put milk producers in the need of always be informed and practically trained in the latest developments concerning milk production.

The course aims at the training and the update on the main new topics regarding the dairy sector and the latest trends on each of the aspects covered. It has also the purpose to create a framework for an active exchange of skills between teachers and participants coming from different countries and realities.

The Diploma is based on at distance training. With a start date on July 9, 2018, the course will be developed in 8 hours per week, for a total of 168 hours. The certificate of the course is issued by all participating institutions.

The course allows for a combination of study and work, and the acquired knowledge can also be immediately applied by the participants to the production activity.

The program of the course covers the main aspects concerning the milk production, with a first introduction module and seven thematic units that are presented in the program published on the FEPALE website.

To know more and participate

Programa del Diplomado

FEPALE training activities program

FEPALE website

