In the fifth edition, 52 villages from Africa, the Americas, Asia, Europe and the Middle East, received the recognition, selected from over 270 applications from 65 UN Tourism Member States. Another 20 villages have been announced for the Upgrade Programme, joining the Best Tourism Villages (BTV) Network.

The BTV Network grows every year, and with its 72 new members, 319 villages are now part of the largest community of rural destinations in the world. During the ceremony, UN Tourism Secretary-General Zurab Pololikashvili highlighted that “Tourism can be a powerful tool to progress shared prosperity, inclusive growth and territorial cohesion in rural areas. Our Best Tourism Villages 2025 highlight communities that are working to safeguard their cultural heritage, preserve their natural resources and create economic opportunities through tourism. These villages show that by embracing tourism, they can promote social inclusion and build a future where no one is left behind.”

In particular, the Best Tourism Villages Prize aims to recognize a village which is an outstanding example of a rural tourism destination with recognized cultural and natural assets, that preserves and promotes community-based values, products and lifestyle and has a clear commitment to sustainability in all its aspects, economic, social and environmental, with the fundamental aim of making tourism one of the drivers of positive transformation, rural development and community well-being.

- The Best Tourism Villages Network: The members of the Network are those villages recognised as Best Tourism Villages by UN Tourism, and those selected to participate in the Upgrade Programme. The Network is a space for exchanging experiences and good practices, learning, and opportunities among its members, and it is open to contributions from experts and public and private sector partners engaged in the promotion of tourism as a driver for rural development.

In the four previous editions of the Prize, UN Tourism has received more than 800 applications from over 100 countries. Currently, the UN Tourism Best Villages Network, in addition to the 52 recognized in the 2025 edition, includes 180 villages worldwide, representing more than 60 countries across five regions of the globe.
