

INTERNATIONAL DIPLOMA IN DAIRY PRODUCTION ORGANIZED BY FEPALE – 2019 EDITION

The Pan American Dairy Federation FEPALE organized the 2019 edition of the International Diploma in Dairy Production - Theoretical and Practical Implementation. The Diploma is provided by the Dairy Training Institute of FEPALE in collaboration with INIA, INTA and FCA-UDE.

In the announcement FEPALE highlights that the growth in milk production and demand of domestic and international markets require more and more a professional specialization and put milk producers in the need of being always informed and practically trained in the latest developments concerning milk production.

The course aims at training and updating producers on the main new topics regarding the dairy sector and the latest trends on each aspect. It also has the purpose of creating a framework for an active exchange of skills between teachers and participants coming from different countries and realities.

The Diploma is carried out with the distance training method. The course will start on April 29, 2019, and it will be developed in 8 hours per week, for a total of 168 hours. The certificate will be issued by all participating institutions.

The course allows for a combination of study and work, and the acquired knowledge can also be immediately applied by participants in their dairy production activities. In addition, the course offers the possibility of interacting with the teaching team composed of specialists and researchers of the highest international level.

The program covers the main aspects concerning milk production, with a first introduction module and seven thematic units that are presented in the program published on FEPALE website.
